

1960s

What was Australia like in 1960s?

The 1960s were a time of great social change in Australian Society. New ideas of the way modern families should live, as well as an influx of culture from other countries helped shape the way Australians lived. The major cultural changes can be seen across the fields of fashion, entertainment, sport, and technology.

What did people wear in the 60s?

Ponchos, moccasins, love beads, peace signs, medallion necklaces, chain belts, polka dot-printed fabrics, and long, puffed "bubble" sleeves were popular fashions in the late 1960s. Both men and women wore frayed bell-bottomed jeans, tie-dyed shirts, work shirts, Jesus sandals, and headbands.

What is unique about Australian culture?

1. Australians main values support equal rights and equal opportunity. Aussies are known for being open-hearted and open-minded and think that everyone has the right to get a fair go. ... The Australian culture is a unique blend of its own that can't really be compared to anywhere else.

What was invented in 1960?

The inventions of the 1960s were all about transforming science fiction into fact. Robots, satellites, and a trip to the moon help make what was once only fantasy, become a reality. Featured inventions include: the Lunar Lander, weather satellites, video game consoles, Tasers, and industrial robots.

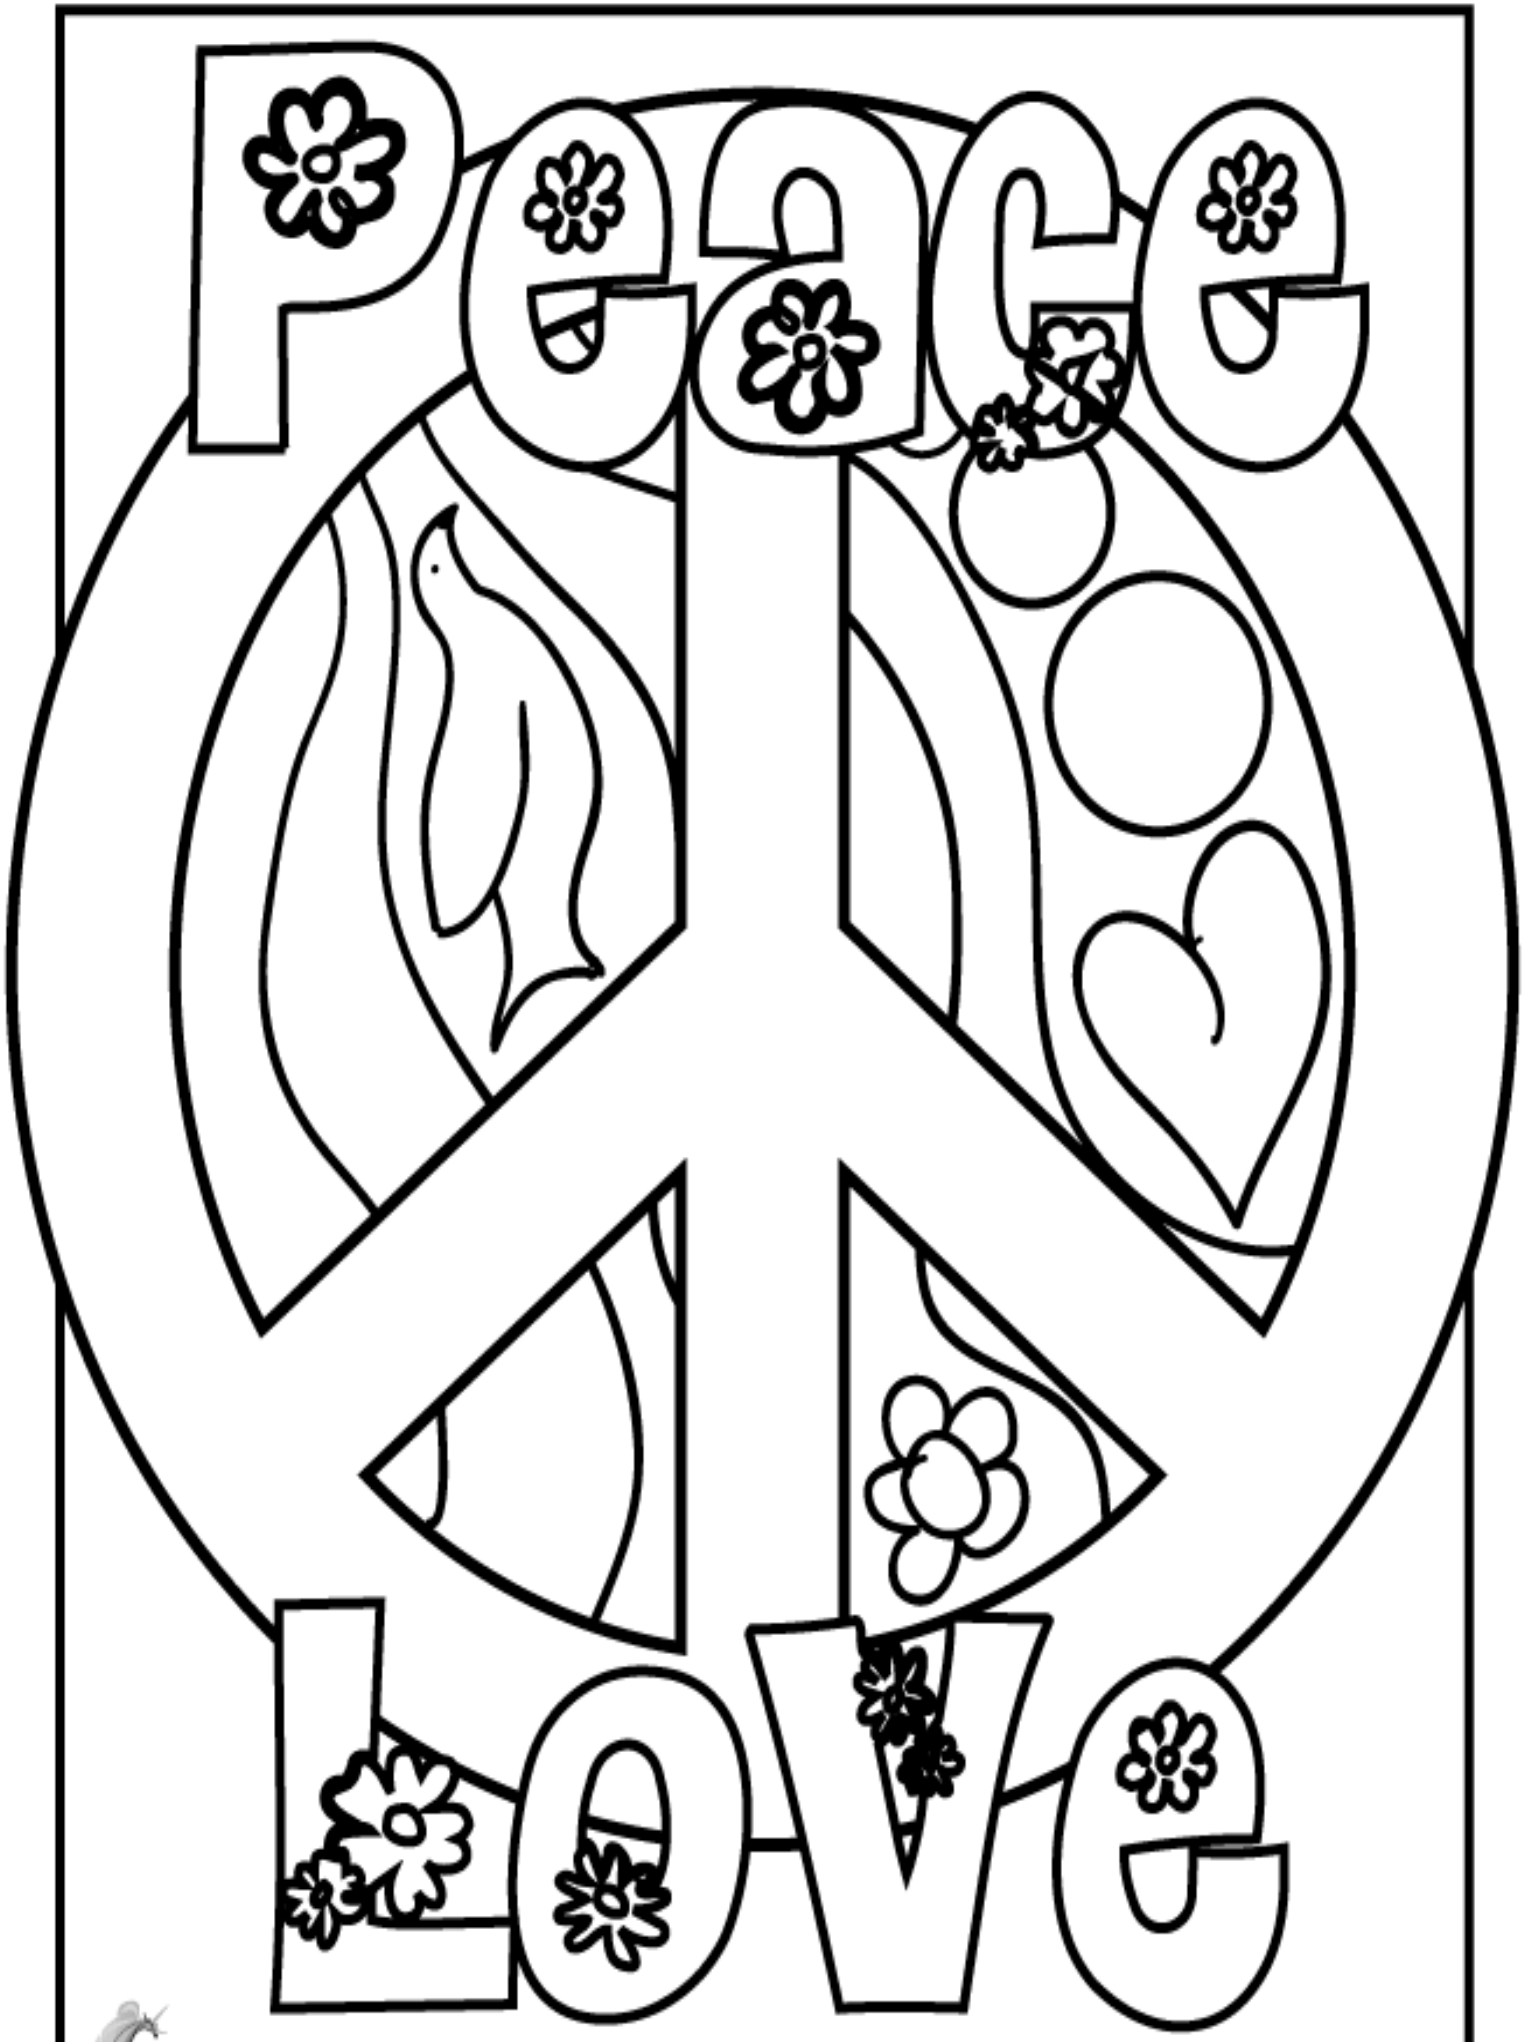

Australia in the 1960s. ... A US President visited these shores for the first time and an Australian prime minister disappeared. Humankind walked on the moon and Beatlemania swept the nation. We converted to decimal currency and created a TV show about a kangaroo that was seen around the world.
